FreelancerCoin may use various cookies, including but not limited to session cookies, persistent cookies, and “flash cookies.” Cookies used by the FreelancerCoin can be blocked. However, blocking or disabling FreelancerCoin’s cookies may interfere the usage of FreelancerCoin Website. FreelancerCoin is not obligated to place cookies on your computer and may do it at its own discretion.

What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small file stored on your IT device when visiting our website. Cookies enable us to register your visits to our website – anonymously – as they allow for recognition of your computer and IP address. Cookies are files or pieces of information that may be stored on your computer (or other internet enabled devices, such as a smartphone or tablet) when you visit a Unilever Site. A cookie will usually contain the name of the website from which the cookie has come from, the "lifetime" of the cookie (i.e. how long it will remain on your device), and a value, which is usually a randomly generated unique number.

We do our utmost to respect users' privacy. We use cookies to monitor and improve our services, but they do also allow us to sell advertising space, which helps keep us free to our readers. We sometimes include links on our site to goods and services offered by third parties and we may be paid some commission if you subsequently decide to make a purchase. Cookies may be used to track your visits to third party sites to help ensure that we are paid the correct amounts. Please note that these commercial arrangements do not influence our editorial content in any way.

How do we use cookies?

Cookies allow for collection of information about the pages you visit and which technology you use.

There are two types of cookie:

Persistent cookies remain on a user's device for a set period of time specified in the cookie. They are activated each time that the user visits the website that created that particular cookie.

Session cookies are temporary. They allow website operators to link the actions of a user during a browser session. A browser session starts when a user opens the browser window and finishes when they close the browser window. Once you close the browser, all session cookies are deleted.

Our use of cookies does not enable us to identify you as user of our website as the information collected is anonymous, and we do not pass on information to third parties.

"The executive order on requirements for information and consent by the storage of or access to information on end-user terminal equipment" requires that the user receives information about the use of cookies or other technologies, and that an informed consent is given by the user.

Which cookies do we use?

Among other types of cookies, we use Google Analytics. It is able to collect information on how users navigate on the website. Google Analytics uses various cookies for this purpose.

How long is a cookie stored on your computer?

It varies from cookie to cookie how long it is stored before it is deleted. Cookies will be renewed every time you visit our website.

How to avoid and delete cookies

Most internet browsers are initially set up to automatically accept cookies. You can change the settings to block cookies or to alert you when cookies are being sent to your device. There are a number of ways to manage cookies. Please refer to your browser instructions or help screen to learn more about how to adjust or modify your browser settings.

However, please note that if you deselect cookies, you may not be able to use certain services and features in the future. If you deselect cookies in your browser, this will apply to all websites. You may change your browser settings at any time; likewise, you may withdraw your consent if you regret it.
